Description:

DAW 1:

In this class, you will learn the basics of Digital Audio Workstations, understand the similarities and differences across all DAW's and how to quickly pick up a new one through mutual terminology. Learn how to record audio into a DAW (guitar/vocals/synthesizer/etc.) and how to record MIDI sections (drum tracks/piano tracks/synth tracks/etc.). Feel confident that you can record your basic ideas. This class runs in the fall and spring. Quality over the ear headphones are strongly recommended.

DAW 2/3:

In this class, you will build upon everything you learned in the previous classes. Mix productions, mix vocals, build upon creative ideas, and using the DAW as not just a technical tool, but a musical instrument. Further topics that will be covered: mastering for streaming/digital release, basics of music publishing, writing to picture, and more. Quality over the ear headphones are strongly recommended.

(All DAW Classes meet in the Music Technology Lab when possible.)
